A Rare Chance.

Those two handsome houses on Main street, offered for sale by W. H. J. Brooks, can be purchased for $5,000 each, and on the following terms: $1,000 cash, the remaining $4,000 to be paid as follows: $2,500 at one percent, in one, two, three, four or five years, as the purchaser prefers. $1,500 for the same term, also at one percent, per month, payable in monthly installments of $33.36, which, at the expiration of five years, would pay the whole amount both principal and interest. Making the total monthly payment which the purchaser would have to pay $33.36, being no more than a fair rent for that class of residence, and with this further advantage that each payment would be for the benefit of the occupant instead of a landlord. CITY AND COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.

SUNDAY, FEB. 7, 1875.

BRECHER recently advised his flock against idolatry, and begged that they would not place him above the Savior.

THE Alta says the Post has gone into Roman history. The editor of the Post has a sort of roving history.

A SAN FRANCISCO stock organ says it is laudable for clerks and servant girls to dabble in mining stocks. Certainly; and thereby struggle in poverty the remainder of their days.

ANOTHER Indian doctor has been transported to the happy hunting ground. He was of the Hot Spring tribe, and his patient died. There is a sort of rude justice among the aborigines.

THE House Committee on Commerce have agreed to recommend a further appropriation of $30,000 more to complete the breakwater at Wilmington. Competent engineers believe that this amount will suffice to finish the work.

THE San Francisco Post says the Los Angeles Grange has been exhibiting its stupidity by passing a series of resolutions denouncing those members of the State Board of Education who voted for a change of school books. If the Post were worth the powder a still stronger series of resolution might be passed denouncing its cupidity in advancing what it knows to be a swindle on the people.

Artesia.

Water is obtained by sinking wells in all parts of Los Angeles valley, but in many localities flowing wells are struck at depths ranging from fifty to three hundred feet. These artesian wells are never-changing fountains, and are both beautiful and useful. One of them will irrigate a small farm, and when in the hands of an industrious man converts every inch of it into productive land. "The Los Angeles Immigration and Land Co-operative Association" have secured three thousand five hundred acres of fine land in one of these localities where artesian wells may be dug on every tract, and divided it into small farms and homesteads, which they propose to dispose of to settlers on terms so liberal that persons of the smallest means may provide themselves with homes. The plan of payment is in yearly installments, in amounts so small that common laborers may save the sum out of their wages. The soil of the entire tract is rich and exhaustless and the trifling expense at which wells may be obtained renders this land desirable to all who wish to secure a few acres on which they may grow everything that is indigenous to a semi-tropical climate. Artesia lies adjacent to Norwalk Station, on the Anaheim Railroad, and may be reached within one hour by rail from this city. The company have laid out a town on the tract and named it Artesia. They will also erect a fine school-house on a two-acre lot reserved for the purpose. For particulars see advertisement in the HERALD or enquire at the office of the company at 13 Spring street, in this city.

Centinela.

The object of the Centinela Land Company is pretty well understood, and the location and quality of the soil they are placing in the market are familiar to all searchers after homes. The Centinela pamphlet has been scattered broadcast and read by the thousands whose eyes are turned in the direction of Southern California. Hundreds of people now in this valley have visited the tract and gone over and examined it for their own information. Still a few words as to the area of land, its quality, and the manner in which it is proposed to dispose of it to the people, may be of interest to new comers and those who have not chanced upon the information from other sources. The Centinela tract is located six miles from Los Angeles in the direction of the ocean. It contains 25,000 acres, which it is the intention of the company to sell off in five, ten, twenty and forty acre farms. The sale is to commence on Monday, the 15th inst., and will continue five days. The sale is to take place at the rancho. The Centinela is made up of one broad, level, fertile valley of over twenty thousand acres, and beautiful fertile rolling hills near the ocean. The soil is an exceedingly fertile loam, and, without exception, the richest and most productive in Southern California. Its vicinity to the ocean insures a crop without irrigation. Excellent wheat has been raised for the last two years upon the hills adjoining the ocean. This wheat field contains 1,000 acres and covers the lightest soil upon the rancho. There is no alkali or barren land. A square mile has been laid off for a town site, and provisions are made for ample school facilities as soon as a sufficient number of families have located to make an educational establishment necessary. Those desiring further information will obtain it by calling at "The Bank" in this city or at the rancho.

A Newspaper Correspondent.

Who is he? Santa Barbara is afflicted with the presence of a writer from New York—a verbose correspondent of the New York Herald. The atmosphere, water, fruit, or something else in that lovely city, has soured on the poor fellow's stomach, and we judge from the language he uses in the Herald of the 17th ult. that his condition is critical. He is treating his own disease, which makes the case still more serious. Invalids in his condition should not be permitted to prescribe for themselves, and the good citizens of Santa Barbara should pay more attention to their invalid guests. This demented man was permitted to go alone to a druggist and buy a bottle of medicine, for which he was charged four bits. The effect of that bottle of medicine, or the enormous price of it, so inflamed the poor man's stomach that he belched out a stream as long as two and a half columns of the Herald of the most detestably bitter looking stuff we ever saw. We hope it relieved him, but we seriously doubt if any human being can survive whose system once contained that amount of poison. If we knew his name we would advise his friends to come and take him home. People afflicted with this correspondent is should never come to the Pacific Coast. There is something in this climate or the fruits of the country that increases the malignity of the disease, and very few such invalids ever live to return to their anxious friends in the East. Since writing the above, it has been more than intimated to us that the New York Herald correspondent wanted some of the people of Santa Barbara to "see him," and he would write up their country. The Barbarians couldn't see it; hence that bitter article in the Herald. If this be true, it accounts for many of the worst symptoms in his case.

T. B. Campbell and James Giblin have been arrested at Bantas, charged with intending to fight a duel. Campbell sent the challenge, which Giblin accepted. feb 1f

Will it Pay?

No man embarks on an enterprise now without asking the all important question, will it pay? Life is too active and too short to waste time on anything that will not pay. Besides the world is exceedingly selfish, and cannot afford to contribute largely, even to benevolent objects. We are all in the boat together, and there are but few exceptions to the above rule. We are not disposed to blame anybody for it; the world has gradually drifted into this condition of things, and no one is responsible. All we can do is to keep in the current and float with the multitude. Perhaps a millennial day will dawn upon the world by and by, and then—well! What then? We don't know, and as we do not expect to be here we are not much concerned about it. We are now hunting something that will pay, and if figures do not lie, we know we have found it in the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad. There is not a road on the continent that ever had half the prospects before it that this one has. The whole mineral wealth of the richest mineral territory on the globe is tributary to it, and will be for all time to come. It is a low estimate to say that from the day of its completion it will have one thousand tons of freight per day. If it should not increase, this alone is the grandest business ever presented to a road. Look at it. At least two million five hundred thousand per annum, for freight alone. The passenger traffic and mails will more than pay the running expenses of the road. But the freight will double in a short time, when that road furnishes facilities to develop the mineral wealth of that vast territory. As cheap freight is what we all want, we will put the price to half our estimate, and we have a million and a quarter per annum on freight alone. Four millions will build the road. The freight will pay twenty-five percent, on the investment, and give a quarter of a million extra. Here is the best permanent investment we ever saw. It will pay. These estimates are from the figures of an old railroad man who has carefully studied the situation and has made his estimates on safe grounds. There is still another important matter to be considered, and that is the certain and almost immediate extension of the road from the Point of Rocks on to a connecting point with the Union Pacific near Salt Lake, by which we shall be placed five hundred miles nearer New York city than San Francisco is to that city. We hope our people will see the importance of pushing the road ahead. It is the greatest enterprise in which we can engage for the early and rapid development of Southern California.

Label Suit against the "Sun."

NEW YORK, February 4th.—The trial of the label suit of William H. Kemble, of Philadelphia, against Charles A. Dana, for the publication, in the Sun, of alleged libelous charges affecting the character of the plaintiff, damages being laid at $50,000, was begun yesterday in the Superior Court, before Judge Curtis. Before the case opened efforts were made to settle without a trial. The plaintiff, after the jury was impaneled, stated that, not having brought the suit for the sake of money, he was willing, if the defendant should make a full retraction, to allow judgment to be entered for mere nominal damages. The defendant declined in any case to allow judgment to be entered against him, but was willing, if the suit was discontinued, to retract the charge made in the Sun that the plaintiff had received money. This not being satisfactory, the case proceeded.

The Austin and Battle Mountain Railroad Bill Voted.

CARSON, February 4th.—The Governor's message vetoing Senate bill No. 3—the Battle Mountain and Austin Railroad bill—was received, and the bill with the message was laid on the table. The Governor takes the ground that the bill is an attempt at special legislation by conferring corporate rights and powers upon certain persons, not in accordance with the general incorporation act. The Governor claims that this conflicts with Section 1 of Article 8 of the Constitution.

The Trial of Mybridge Closed.

NAPA, Cal., February 5th.—In the Mybridge trial to-day, after recess, the testimony in rebuttal was continued. Regarding the sanity of defendant, the witness mentioned that there was no evidence of insanity except in his immediate connection with the tragedy. At the close of the testimony, a recess of half an hour was taken to prepare instructions for the jury. After recess, Judge Storey opened for the prosecution, followed by Messrs King and Pendegast for the defense, the District Attorney closing for the prosecution at 10:30 P. M. We understand that the twenty-nine Palm mining district will shortly be on the carpet. The principal owners of the Palm Consolidated Gold Mining Company, both here and in San Francisco, have given the entire control to Capt. C. W. Rose, of the Lytle Creek Hydraulic Mining Company. Don't fret. Don't fret, for a fretful Christian is like a prickly pear, bitter within and irritating without. God says, "Cast all your care on Me, for I care for you." "No you don't," says the fretting Christian, "and so I'll fret over my cares."

Don't fret, for you are a witness for Christ. What is your testimony worth if your fretting contradicts His words, "My yoke is easy and My burden is light?"

Don't fret, though your lot is hard and your troubles many, for your Lord was oppressed and afflicted, yet as lamb led to the slaughter, "He opened not His mouth."

Don't fret, for fretting, instead of relieving from trouble, will lay on you heavier burdens. As fear slays more persons than cholera, so fretting kills more than real care.

Don't fret, for God controls all things that are or will be, and among these are your troubles. Instead of fretting, "count it all joy when ye fall into divers trials," for "tribulation worketh patience, and patience experience, and experience hope, and hope maketh not ashamed, because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts." Instead of fretting, study that logic—and rejoice in God.

Don't fret, for God's providence governs all things. Consider the hairs of your head, the fowls of the air, the lilies of the field. Thus stay your heart on God, and you shall be kept in perfect peace.—Southern Presbyterian.

SUNDAY READING.

[Selected for Sunday's Herald.]

TILL HE COMES.

"Till He come"—oh! let the words linger on the trembling lips; let the "little while" between us and their golden light be seen; let us think how heaven and home lie beyond that "Till He come."

When the weary ones we love enter on their rest above, seems the earth so poor and vast, and the darkness and the tomb, only whispers, "Till He come."

Clouds and conflicts round us press; would we have one sorrow less? All the hardness of the cross, all that tells the world is lost—death and darkness and the tomb, only whispers, "Till He come."

See! the feast of love is spread; break the wine and break the bread, sweet memories till the Lord calls us round His heavenly board, from earth, from glory some, saved only—"Till He come."

REST. There is no feeling more common, perhaps, than that of having no time to rest. In the busy, busy lives of those who are, in any sense of the word, workers—especially in our own land, where everything conspires to quicken our nervous energies to the utmost—there seems little room for repose. From year's end to year's end, with the exception of an occasional day, or a fortnight in the Summer, hand and brain keep on, doing their utmost, till by and by health wanes, neural irritation ensues, and in some way nature makes its reprisals. The brilliant student who carries off the prize at the school examinations, not infrequently finds himself, in the sterner competitions of life, the overworked professional man dies of exhaustion midway to the summit of success. The merchant who pours his life into profit and loss, and balances his accounts in the ledger, falls a victim to paralysis or apoplexy. "I cannot take time to sleep," says the ambitious toiler, pressing on to the goal and the crown of the future, heedless of the day when he shall seek sleep and find it lying from him on a pillow. Over-taxed fathers and mothers set their children—inheritors of their own examples of fretfulness and impatience. In early-lined brows and early-fading bloom we see the effects of too much hurry, too little rest.

God sometimes sends an "enforced pause." It comes in the shape of a trouble, and fever, an unforeseen journey, perhaps—what we call an accident—and we are taken out of our ordinary life, and are obliged to stop. From the confines of the sick-room, the world recedes. The cares that loomed so large to our sight yesterday seem to have gone away indefinitely. The things that we thought nobody else could do must be done by somebody, and it seems so strange that we felt ourselves so important. Our vacation has come—not the one we wanted, or planned for, or intended, but the best for us, because God has put it into our lives—and he makes no mistakes. There are fathers who, wrong as it may seem, are obliged to stop. From the confines of the sick-room, the world recedes.
